Navel Flyer Reaches Azores Island GUN RIOTS PREVAIL

N. C. 4 FIRST TO ARRIVE AT HORTA

N. C. 1 AND N. C. 3 NOT FAR BEHIND. OFFICIALS BELIEVE.

FIRST OBJECTIVE OF TRIP ATTAINED

Flight From Trepassey Bay Is Made in 15 Hours, 13
Minutes.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, May 17.—The American naval seaplane N. C. 4 under Lieut. Commander A. J. Rea, has attained its first objective in the trans-Atlantic flight, having landed safely at Horta, island of Fayal, Azores, at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Washington time, as of their course somewhere between the Azores and Cape Verde, about one hundred miles from Horta.

Original plans were for the planes to land at Ponta Delgada, but the N. C. 4, which was the first to arrive, was forced to land at Horta.

Since the fliers passed out of range of the Atlantic coast radio station, communication with the navy department practically has been severed.

Because of the fact the machines had been making much faster time than was expected, navy officers here believed they would arrive considerably before noon.

Their messages showed they were averaging about 85 miles an hour.

Yours Truly thought that from the time the aerial voyagers took last night until they had passed the Azores, they had been making good progress by intercepted radio messages.

By this means the powerful government station at Bar Harbor, Maine, kept the navy department advised of the expedition for more than eight hours.

Although the radio apparatus on board the seaplanes was only designed for a radius of about 25 miles, the messages exchanged between the planes when they were more than 1,200 miles distant.

This was declared by experts at the department to be one of the most amazing feats of the modern world.

When the flight was planned, it was not expected that the stations on this side would be able to hear commander Trepassey's report after his squadron was 200 miles at sea.

Course is changed.
Trepassey, N. F., May 12.—When the American hydroplanes sped into the east, over the Grand Banks, on a course not only carefully charted, but also followed by the Portuguese ships all the way to the Portuguese coast.

Amy C. Waters
When Company M is home again!
Hurrah! Hurrah!
We'll show them what we think of them
Hurrah! Hurrah!
The girls will sing and the boys will shout
And we'll turn out pockets inside out
And we'll all feel gay when Company M comes home.

Oh Company M was brave and strong
Hurrah! Hurrah!
They kept a moving right along
Hurrah! Hurrah!
The mothers weep and the fathers sigh
For some in hero's graves do lie
And we all feel sad for those who will not come home.

Oh Company M is home again!
Hurrah! Hurrah!
Oh Company M is home again!
Hurrah! Hurrah!
We'll dance and sing and we'll laugh
And we'll all feel proud of our old Company M.

The above is the work if Miss Annie C. Waters of this city. Clip it out, paste it in your pocket. (You'll have to take the lids off anyway when the flag passes so Kelly will be a rattling good music rack. Nobody'll be any the wiser for your not knowing the words either.)
Major Thomas E. Welsh received the song in his morning mail. So taken up with it was he that he immediately came to the Gazette office and ordered 500 copies printed. As dogeers to be distributed Monday. Mr. Welsh left instructions to have the copies delivered to the Chamber of Commerce office where they may be secured.
To make sure you have a copy to shout when the Les Terribles get home, clip, clip, clip.

PEACE —and— WAR

Important developments have occurred in connection with the Italian problem before the Paris peace conference. Primarily the Italians have agreed to relinquish their claims upon the Dodecanese islands off Asia Minor, in favor of Greece.

Italy has been claiming these islands by virtue of treaty rights acquired after the Italo-Turkish war, although the islands are largely Greek in population. The settlement of this controversy is regarded as a long step toward the solution of the Italian problem as a whole.

The treaty with Austria has been further whittled into shape and it was made known today that an indemnity of 5,000,000,000 gold marks would be demanded from Austria. This means a sum of approximately $1,250,000,000. Germany is required to pay.

Pope Benedict has taken steps to communicate with the "head of one of the most important delegations at the peace conference," in an effort to secure a revision of the terms of the first part of peace according to a dispatch from Rome.

The pontiff, it is said, was begged to take this step by the Catholic prelates of Germany. When the pope's official dress is not indicated in the dispatch, it is the maritime mass demonstrations of protest are being held throughout Germany. In Berlin an immense throng assembled before the Reichstag building Thursday and adopted resolutions denouncing the treaty.

The Hungarian official press bureau at Budapest, according to a news agency message, reports the receipt of a Russian soviet telegram stating that the Ukrainian Red Army has defeated the Rumanians who are fleeing along the Dniester river front. It is this region that the Russian bolshevik forces have been trying to force their way through to Hungary.

Normal Weather is Predicted for Week

Washington, May 17.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday issued by the weather bureau today were:
Region of Great Lakes: Normal and mild temperature with light showers Tuesday and Wednesday.
Upper Mississippi Valley: Normal and comparatively mild temperature probable with showers probably Monday and again Thursday or Friday.

MOBS RULE IN PROTEST OF TREATY

MASS DEMONSTRATIONS ARE ORDER OF DAY IN GERMANY.

Italy Relinquishes Claims to Dodecanese; Acute Dispute Ends.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Berlin, Friday, May 16.—Mass demonstrations are the order in Germany. A crowd estimated at 200,000 persons and including people from the front regions assembled in the Reichstag building and adopted resolutions against the peace terms. The neighborhood of the Hotel Adlon, headquarters of the allied missions, has been placed under guard of a cordon of police.

Serious rioting occurred at Stettin, Thursday night according to the Lok-Anzeiger. A crowd stormed the prison and attempted all under detention there and attacked the barracks. It is believed all roads and railways leading to the city have been occupied by the mob to prevent the arrival of reinforcements to the government troops. Many shops are reported to have been plundered.

Demonstrations at Hamburg.
London, Friday, May 16.—There was a mass demonstration outside the headquarters of the American mission at Hamburg, Thursday, during which the terms of peace were denounced, according to the Exchange Telegraph company.

Austrian Indemnity Less.
Paris, May 17.—The indemnity clause of the Austrian peace treaty provides for a payment of one-twentieth as large as that demanded from Germany. The sum asked for is 5,000,000,000 gold marks without bond.

Italy has been requested by the Italians that the Austrian treaty provides for the return to Rome of the many priceless art treasures taken by Austria as booty in previous wars.

Italy has relinquished her claims to the Dodecanese islands, off the Asia Minor coast, in favor of Greece. This ends one of the most acute controversies before the peace conference.

Adriatic Outlook Hopeful.
Premier Orlando, Count Macchi Di Celere, Italian ambassador to the United States, and Col. House of the American peace commission today announced their conferences looking toward a settlement of the Adriatic question. It was said that the outlook was hopeful.

Allied naval forces were landed at Smyrna Wednesday. It developed, however, that the military moves are being made in anticipation of the making of peace with Turkey.

The movement was directed by a peace conference as a precautionary measure for the maintenance of order.

Demarcation Line Drawn.
Berlin, Friday, May 16.—According to the agreement reached between the Poles and Ukrainians through the good offices of the peace conference, the demarcation line between the two forces which have been contending in Galicia has been drawn between Lemberg and Przemyśl.

Winnipeg, May 17.—Conditions in Winnipeg brought about by the general strike of more than 30,000 union men and women, are becoming increasingly serious this morning. Prior to the outbreak of the strike, the city was in a state of normalcy.

The Winnipeg official press bureau at Winnipeg, according to a news agency message, reports the receipt of a Russian soviet telegram stating that the Ukrainian Red Army has defeated the Rumanians who are fleeing along the Dniester river front.

Kisses Him, Then Finds He Is Wrong One

Her eyes were dimmed with tears of joy. She was so excited she could scarcely see. But she made her way among the big strapping soldiers of the 18th engineers, gathered in the Chicago coliseum last week, looking for her boy.

She knew he was there. She scanned every bronzed face she passed. She had waited long and patiently for the day when he would come back from the battlefields of France, and grew impatient at the delay in locating him. As she passed group after group she asked for her boy, mentioning a name well known to Janesville folks. At last she came to some one who knew him.

"He's right here," a soldier called out. She quickly made her way to the kneeling figure and folded him into her arms. He submitted to the embrace, then said, "That's all right, madam, only I'm not your son. By that time her son was by her side. She was too happy to realize that she had just undergone the most embarrassing moment of her life.

Three members of the crews of the N. C. seaplanes which are to attempt the ocean flight. Left to right: Lieut. Com. P. N. L. Hurler, commanding officer of the NC-3, scout same plane, and Lieut. L. T. Barrin, second pilot.

The fliers selected by the U. S. navy officials to guide the N. C. seaplanes across the Atlantic are confident they will beat the English and French entries in the race. It is not a boastful confidence, but rather one of determined nature. They have faith in the giant planes and their fellow fliers in the attempt.

FAIR GROUND SALE OFFER SCORNFUL

Janesville's fair grounds will never be sold to private interests to be divided into lots—not if the unanimous sentiment of 100 stockholders of the fair association assembled in special meeting at the city hall last evening, can be taken as an indicator of the sense of the remaining shareholders.

On motion offered by City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham, the stockholders want on record informally as favoring the holding of their shares and boosting the fair. There was not a dissenting voice.

Entertaining the proposition of J. J. Tucker, Chicago, to sell their shares at 50 cents on the dollar, a committee of stockholders will start out Tuesday, relieving their share selling efforts and boosting the fair throughout the country. It is proposed to sell $150,000 worth of stock completing the sale of the $50,000 capital stock.

$4,000 Already Sold.
Shares to the amount of $4,000 have already been disposed of in the part of the county last week.

When the remainder is disposed of, the association's indebtedness of $14,000 can be cleared and there will be $1,000 in the treasury. The state's appropriation of $2,500 will swell the total and give the association a working fund.

A full discussion of the fair grounds situation led up to the informal motion last night. Mayor T. E. Welsh presided at the meeting.

Several characterized the efforts to buy the stock at half price as "utterly absurd." Among those who spoke were Postmaster J. J. Cunningham, Dr. Wayne A. Munro, R. G. Cunningham, Mayor T. E. Welsh, and others.

The stock is worth $150 a share today and here we have a man trying to buy it for 50 cents," said Mayor Welsh. With the great future ahead of the city, it would be the height of folly to sell the grounds now. We have the assurance of tractor officials that some 10,000 workmen will be on the job here within the next few years.

Only recently a man connected with the tractor plant offered to waive that there would be $5,000 working down there in 1925. This means an increase in population of about 100,000. "Janesville is the center of a rich farming territory," said Mr. Cunningham, "and with the building of the new concrete roads it will grow in importance and become more closely connected with rural communities. The fair can be made the greatest thing of the kind in the middle west. It will be one of the best race tracks in the country and we have the buildings."

Company M Men Not Worrying About Getting Their Jobs Back

(By JAMES F. McCUE.)
"How many old Company M members are home?" and other questions about the old members of the company who are missing are on the lips of the 27 Barred Arrow men now at Camp Grant awaiting their discharge.

Lieut. Harold Pelton (now Captain Pelton) is the idol of every member of Company M and he was the first local man whom the boys inquired for when they left the train at Grant, Friday morning.

"He was a wonderful soldier and a true friend to all the men," First Sergeant Murphy said. "That's good."

"There is not the slightest doubt but that every member of this company would go through hell for Pelton," Sergeant Murphy said. "All of the boys are eager to learn of Pelton and how he was wounded."

Met Caldwell at Grant.
"We met Caldwell at Grant before sailing," Sergeant McArthur said. Sergeant McArthur stated that Captain Caldwell has been given the rank of lieutenant colonel and is commanding the 18th infantry of regulars.

"Is Delavan lake wet again?" one of the soldiers asked, and when told that it would be after July 1 if the Wilson bill did not stand, he smiled and said, "That's good."

Tales of how old Company M, Wisconsin national guard, was broken up, are related by all of the men. They speak with pride of the excellent service rendered by the company while at Camp McArthur and often they assert that if the company had not made such a remarkable showing at Waco that they would not have been split up.

Left With 162 Men.
"We left Janesville with 162 men and are returning with 27," Mechanic William F. Hill said. Mechanic Hill told of the transferring of the privates of Company M and he stated that the company had had 621 replacements from the time they arrived in France until the armistice was signed.

"Where is Mr. Ryan, Edwin Sartell, George Strampe, and the rest of the boys?" Corp. Rush Berg asked. Corp. Berg stated that it was a hard blow to the company when the transferring started and some of the best of friends and bunk mates were separated.

"I just got it for doing my duty," Sergt. Frank Hill answered when asked about his Croix de Guerre. "I was fighting up at Juvigny and after the fight I was told that I was to get a Croix de Guerre," Mechanic Hill said.

Monday afternoon is going to be a gala day in Janesville and the largest crowd that was ever in this city is expected to be on hand to greet the boys of Company M when they march down the streets on the last lap of their journey. Company M members will receive their discharges at Camp Grant.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET.
A meeting of the welcoming committee will be held at the Chamber of Commerce office tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Every member of the committee is urged to be present.

Grant some time Monday morning and will undoubtedly arrive in Janesville between three and four o'clock Monday afternoon.

A reception committee composed of Frank J. Green, Alexander Matheson, Sidney Bestwick, E. J. Clemens, and Judge Harry J. Maxfield visited the boys yesterday afternoon and later on interviewed Colonel Hutchinson in regard to the time the men would be discharged.

Out on Monday.
Colonel Hutchinson, the idol of every enlisted man, informed the committee that although he would like to have the boys out here Sunday, that it would be impossible to discharge the men before Monday morning. There are over 3,000 soldiers of the Les Terribles at Camp Grant awaiting discharge.

Automobiles for conveying the men from Camp Grant to Janesville will leave the Chamber of Commerce office on East Milwaukee street promptly at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning. It is thought that the trip to Camp Grant will be made in two hours. The cars will go directly to the discharge office where the men will be assembled.

Luncheon for Heroes.
Lunch for the men will be served at the Nelson hotel at Rockford. Arrangements for the luncheon are being made by the welcoming committee. Every effort will be made to start for this city before two o'clock.

Late yesterday afternoon the men returned in all the ordnance equipment with the exception of their blankets. This morning they were given their physical examinations and will start through the discharge mill this afternoon.

When turning in their ordnance equipment the men are asked to sign the payroll and make their application for their $60 bonus. They are then given their physical examinations by an army medical board and a civilian military board.

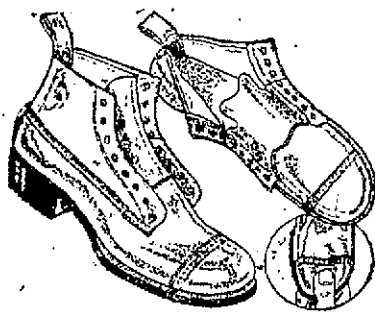

Through the Mill.
They are then assembled in their barracks and are given an opportunity to re-enlist. According to the local boys there are no members of Company M who are planning on re-enlisting.

Company M members are going through the discharge mill this afternoon. The work of going through the mill is exceptionally slow and undoubtedly several of the boys will not finish this afternoon.

The actual work of discharging the men will start early Monday morning and it is thought that the last Janesville man will be discharged by 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Every member of Company M, although glad to get back, claimed that he wouldn't have missed the big noise for a million dollars. All of the boys are tired of army life. Just one month ago next Monday (Continued on Page Five)

Local Boy With
Army in Germany

PETER PETERSON.

Private Peter Peterson, member of Company 34th Infantry, is one of the few soldiers in the American army to go over the top in November, the day the armistice was signed. Private Peterson went over the top with his company at 8:20 A. M. the morning of November 11, and after gaining their objective fought the Germans right up to 11 o'clock.

Private Peterson left this city with a draft contingent last fall and after spending a few weeks at Camp Grant was chosen to go overseas with the Blackhawk division. On the arrival of the 88th division in France he was transferred to the 88th division in time to participate in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

When the armistice was signed Private Peterson's company was made a unit in the army of occupation and at the present time they are located at Trier on the Mosel.

According to a letter received by a friend of Private Peterson he expects to arrive home during the summer.

AFTER VICTORY LOAN
COMES W. S. STAMPS

With the Victory loan, the last great popular subscription issue of government securities, now closed, the importance of the war savings stamps as a continued feature of government finance was emphasized by Secretary Glass in a statement, urging the operation of bankers and merchants in placing this opportunity of investment before the American people.

"Many persons," said the secretary, "have not taken the war saving stamps seriously as an investment, but the fact that they may be bought in as large a quantity as $1,000 face value during 1919, at such favorable interest return, makes them most desirable for the average man or family."

"Although war saving stamps sales this year do not nearly approach the high marks made under stimulation of war needs last year, their absorption by the public has far been satisfactory under existing circumstances."

"It is customary for savings in all channels to shrink during the early months of the year, and it is expected that the war savings stamp sales, along with postal savings and savings bank deposits, will grow steadily throughout the year."

Appeal From County to
Supreme Court Approved

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, May 17.—Executive approval has been given to the bill providing that appeals may be made from the county courts direct to the supreme courts. Under the old system appeals were made from the county court to the circuit court and a further appeal might then be had to the supreme courts.

The new drainage bill has practically been agreed upon and is expected to come into the senate Wednesday or Thursday in substitute form. The measure will aid in the drainage of Wisconsin land and Gov. Phillips believes it to be one of the most important pieces of legislation enacted at this session.

BELOIT AND CARROLL
DEBATERS AT J. H. S.

Debaters from Beloit and Carroll colleges spoke at the high school yesterday afternoon, assisting in creating a more co-operative spirit between the Janesville high school and the two colleges.

Poor speakers were on the program, two from each of the schools. All spoke on the proposed League of Nations, explaining its purpose and functions.

Frederick Bailes, Beloit, was the first speaker. He explained the benefits to be gained from the league and said that it would destroy the causes of war. "International co-operation is the only way to success," said Mr. Bailes.

"The nations must enter the league with the right spirit or it will be a miserable failure," Walter Ritscher, Beloit college, said in citing some of the objections to the covenant. Kenneth Bailes, Carroll, finished the program by telling of the benefits to be gained by entering the league.

Miss Jessica George, former Janesville high school girl, gave two readings, which received much applause from the assembly.

ARE you exposing your workmen to the danger of burns, or death from electric shock? You are, if you are using a single open knife electric switch.

Electricity is safe if properly used and safeguarded. Every precaution has been taken to make all other parts of electrical equipment safe by thorough insulation, but the danger of the exposed open knife switch remains and thousands of accidental deaths and burns occur annually. Insurance tables prove this.

The Square D Safety Switch, we are glad to announce, meets every requirement of safety. It is already safe-guarding the lives of thousands of people in homes and factories. The switch is completely enclosed in a metal box. It is operated by a handle on the outside, which can be locked in the "off" position if desired. No chance for anyone to come in contact with the powerful, deadly current. Furnished in 300 sizes to meet every need.

Real Quality

Like warriors grown gray in harness, and white-haired employes still on the job, a scuffed and scarred set of Silvertown Cords on an ancient car somehow best tells the story of the matchless service of these patrician tires.

The graceful, well-groomed elegance, with which they when new adorn smart cars, may be shabby; their tough tread worn smooth; but their distinction remains.

Once a Silvertown always a Silvertown. You know them, old or new, for aristocrats.

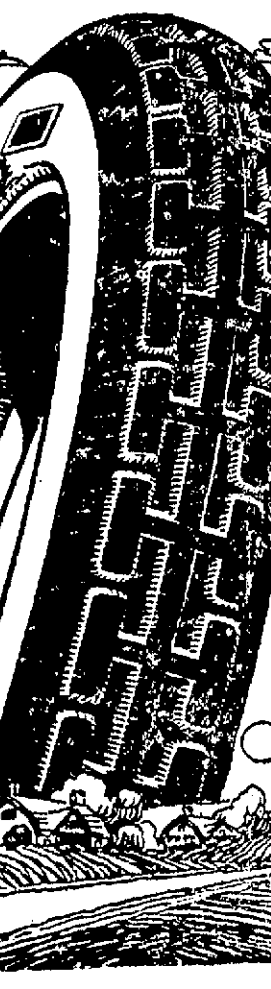

In their age, you read the history of their wonderful endurance; their useful career of miles and miles of road roughing.

You always get the long mileage of a ripe old age to round out the youthful beauty of the tires with the Twin Red Diamonds on the sidewall.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Janesville has made arrangements for a city plan and experts have been at work for several weeks making a survey. Those who are interested in the proper development of our city are interested in the subject. Dr. John Nolen, Cambridge, Mass., one of the most eminent city planners in this country, has written an article on the subject which explains some of the history of the movement and its aims. It follows:

"The modern movement for city planning in the United States may be said to have begun about 1890, with a special stimulus along certain lines in 1893 through the influence of the world's fair at Chicago. A large amount of city planning, much of it of a high order, was done earlier. In no sense, however, did it represent a movement—it was not widespread, and it was not continuous nor persistent.

"Notable examples of earlier city planning are: William Penn's plan for Philadelphia in 1682, and the plans for other Pennsylvania cities, like Reading, for instance, which were connected with it; the plan of Williamsburg, Va., in 1699; Oglethorpe's plan for Savannah, in 1733; the great plan of L'Enfant for Washington, D. C. in 1790; other plans due to the influence of L'Enfant or his associates, as Buffalo, N. Y., and Erie, Pa.; the plan for New York City in 1807. All of these plans were of a spasmodic character, of the 'once for all' type, without any adequate provision for systematic revision and extension.

"The period from the early part of the nineteenth century until the last decade of that century was one in which the planning of cities, like the architectural planning of buildings, and, in fact, like municipal government itself, was at a low point, characterized by few results of a desirable type. It was during this period largely that the western cities adopted checkerboard plans of the most common type, without any real recognition of the requirements of streets and transportation, nor the necessity to preserve natural features, nor to set aside public open spaces, nor to take care of the economic and industrial problems involved in the improvement of waterways and water fronts.

"The more direct sources of the present city planning movement have been many. Among the most important which should be mentioned are the following: the influence of the plan of 1871 for New York City, which showed not only highways, but a system of rapid transit railroads free from grade crossings with the streets; the appointment of the Boston board of surveys in 1891; the Boston Metropolitan Plan commission in 1892; the World's Fair exposition at Chicago in 1893; the establishment of the school of landscape architecture of Harvard university in 1900; the work of Daniel H. Burnham, Charles F. McKim, Augustus Saint Gaudens, and Frederick Law Olmsted, Jr., in the report of the senate committee on the District of Columbia, in 1902; the plan of Chicago prepared under the direction of the Commercial club, 1906-8, by Burnham and Bennett; and the creation of a committee on a city plan by the board of estimate and apportionment of New York City in 1914, with the problem of districting the city as an important feature; and the making of a large number of general plans and reports for the smaller cities.

"The background of these definite projects was the rapid growth of cities, a nation-wide civic awakening, the improvement of the form and character of city government, the establishment of public service commission, the organization of local improvement societies, civic bodies, women's clubs, chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

"A great influence was also exercised by the rapid and substantial progress of town planning in Europe. Soon after the Franco-Prussian war, the German cities, beginning with those in Prussia, went to work systematically to improve their municipalities. Much planning was done, and publications of value were issued. Other European countries, especially France and Belgium and Austria, achieved success in the replanning of towns and cities for modern life. Especial mention should be made of the passage of the English Housing and Town Planning act in 1909, which provided a suggestive method of procedure for Canada and the United States.

"A clearing-house for city planning ideas and an effective means of stimulating and directing the movement was secured by the organization of the national conference on city planning in 1909, which has continued its work to date, holding an annual conference, publishing a quarterly entitled 'The City Plan' and carrying on correspondence.

"The ideas of most significance in the modern city planning movement are: the increasing dependence of the individual upon the prosperity of the city as a whole; the importance of planning, not merely for the routine requirements, but also for those of the future; and the necessity, for reasons of economy as well as success, to co-ordinate the planning of the various features so that the improvements to be carried out will be well related, one to another, far-seeing and permanent.

"The city planning movement in the United States, and in the various cities which take it up, has usually three phases. There is first the propaganda, which expresses itself mainly in rather vague discussion. That is followed often by the preparation of a report and a general plan submitting more or less definite proposals based upon a preliminary study, and resulting as a rule only in tentative suggestions. Frequently as a direct result of this general plan-suggestions, however, detailed plans and construction drawings for definite improvements follow. This third stage is apt to be somewhat ineffective, unless suitable local machinery is secured in the form of a planning board or city plan commission with some real power, and an appropriation with which to do its work.

"An excellent outline of 'How to Organize a City Planning Campaign,' by Frederick Law Olmsted, has been published in the American City pamphlets. It gives the basic idea of city planning, the city plan office of the future, a city survey as the basis for a plan, and physical accomplishment as the final step."

I want to get home where the skies

I want to get home to the folks I

I've had enough of this foreign air,
And the army life with its pomp and show;
I'm glad to come when the fight was on
And I'd come again if they asked me to,
But I'm sick of the sights I must look upon.
I want to get home now the war is through.

Don't want to travel to Rome or Nice,
Don't want to go on a pleasure trip
I may come back in the days of peace
But I'll stay my way on a tony ship.
There isn't a thing that I want to do,
Here isn't a place where I want to go.
I've just one thought now the war is through.
I want to get home to the folks I know.

It wasn't so bad in the early days
When we were fighting the gray-

An' hammerin' at him in forty ways,
But it's different now that the job is done.
I'm sick of France an' its customs

I'm tired of people that parley voux;
I'm all fed up on the sights I see here.
I want to get home now the war is through.

I want to get back to the little town
An' the girl I left an' the friends

I want to get out of this army brown,
I want to get out of a marching line.
All that I'm wantin' an' all I ask
An' all that I'm waitin' for day by

Now the war is through an' I've done
my task
Is to start once more on the home-

Married Men's Corps Scores Off All Girls

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
San Francisco, May 17.—On a troop train from San Francisco speeding eastward a practical joker picked up a sign announcing that the occupants of one car were married men.
None of the soldiers could understand why the young women at every station avoided that particular section of the train until a detachment being sent from Fort Scott to Camp Mills for discharge discovered the trouble.
In bold letters on the sides of the car were the initials "M. M. C." and beneath an explanation reading: "Married Men's Corps."

N. F. Sanderson, a Y. M. C. A. secretary accompanying the train, writes to fellow workers at the Proviso that a change which proved a marvel was made at Green River, Wyo.
The letters "S. M. S." were substituted and beneath was written, "Single Men's Special."
At every station, asserts Sanderson, the girls nearly climbed over each other to talk to the soldiers, secure addresses and give them good things to eat.

LIEUT. COMMANDER LAVENDER

Lieut. Commander Robert Lavender, whose name has been mentioned in the dispatches in connection with the trans-Atlantic flight of the U. S. Navy planes, is the radio officer of the NC-3. He has played a leading part both in the early experimental work in radio telegraphy and telephoning and in their development. He is the officer who gave Secretary Daniels a new experience a short time ago—a talk from Washington with an airplane miles away. Lavender was at the air end, Lieut. Commander Lavender when he was in command of the destroyer force a few years ago. He went up at Guantanamo to test a radio telegraph set, then in its earliest stages. Lieut. Commander Chevalier was the pilot. The machine fell. Lavender sought to stay himself by catching hold of the sides of the boat, and when the plane struck the water both his arms were broken. Chevalier was asked afterward to tell how the fall felt when they struck the water.

Comm. R.A. LAVENDER

"As if you ran into a stone wall when going at the rate of 200 miles an hour," he said.
The experience merely called forth a larger supply of grit in Lavender, though it took a year for him to recover from the effects of the accident. He was assigned to short duty, and placed in charge of all radio material for aircraft work and went to England, France and Italy to inspect radio air plants there. Later, under his supervision, the radio telephoning for speaking to and from airplanes was developed for long distances. He was born in Iowa in 1889, and appointed midshipman from that state in 1912.

THE WISHING PLANE

Dr. Cheer told Jack and Jane many wonderful stories of flowers while they were making about his home on Beautiful Island that day.
"You children must be sure to remember all of the things Dr. Cheer tells you, and all the wonderful things you see on the trip around the world so that Mother and Father will be glad to hear of it when you come home," said Captain Brave.
They were sitting on the Doctor's porch then, watching the sun go down. It was a great big ball of red, just like the children had seen at home, but far more beautiful.
It threw weird lights on the flowers and bushes and trees around the house.
"Now we have to wait until tomorrow for the sun to go around the earth and come back where we can see it again, don't we?" said Jack.
"We have to wait until tomorrow to see the sun again," said Dr. Cheer, "but we go around the sun. It is over a million times bigger than the earth and couldn't take the time to go around each day. But because we are standing on the earth we think the sun moves. But instead of that, while the earth is turning round and round it moves around the sun, too. It takes a year for the earth to travel once around the sun."

Dr. Cheer seemed to be a wonderful man. No matter what the children asked him he could tell them all that they wanted to know, and in such a way that they could understand it. "Tell us more about the sun," said Jane.
"Well, the sun has an awfully big job," said the Doctor. "He has many, many planets and comets to watch over. He has to throw his light on them. He keeps them warm and makes the trees and flowers and everything else grow.
"Great men who know all about such things have found out that he even keeps the planets and the stars where they should be so they don't fall right out of the heavens."
This interested the children more than ever.
"How does the sun keep the planets in the right places?" asked Jack, while Jane looked up to see if anything was tumbling down, seeing that the sun had gone away and wasn't there to watch.
"Well, the planets are going around the sun all the time and the sun keeps pulling at them just like a magnet does a needle. If the sun didn't pull at them they would go flying off to nowhere," said the Doctor.
"You know, Jack, how a stone flies around in a circle when you tie the stone on the end of a string and whirl it? Well, the planets fly around the sun just like the stone does around your hand, and the sun keeps the planets from flying away, just like the string keeps the stone from going up in the air or down on the ground."
And the doctor told how the sun heats and lights out earth, and how the sun makes the moon and stars shine, for the moon and the stars haven't any light of their own, you know.
Then Dr. Cheer made the children happier than ever when he said: "If Captain Brave is willing, we will go way up above the clouds in the airplane tonight, where we can see all the stars plainly, and I will tell you more about them."
Captain Brave was glad to take them up. But I can't tell you today what they saw.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO GOD

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART
Author of "The Man in Lower Ten," etc.
(Copyright—Mary Roberts Rinehart)

The night had fallen. A line of cars from the country, club was carrying town people and villagers home to the late dinners of the golf season. Groups of girls and men in summer garments, chatting gayly, passed under the wall of her garden. Down in the valley straggling lines of evening churchgoers moved decorously toward the churches. A ragged child stood in the road below her garden and wept. Elinor ran down to him, and took him up in her arms. When she had soothed him she felt quieter. She went into the house and put on her hat. There was no message from Talbot, no word of Huff.

Evening service was over when she reached Saint Jude's. The last stranger had gone, and Ward was not in sight. She avoided the street lights. She felt quite sure that Walter was in the vicinity, his keen eyes missing nothing.

He had put his hand on her before she knew he was near.

"Worshipping again?" he jeered. "I have not been in the church." Her quick mind was scheming desperately ahead. "I have been alone this evening. When you did not come, I—"

He swung her around. "You were looking for me?" "I thought you might be here. You said last night—"

The memory of the night before stung him. He released her wrist.

"Walter, I am afraid! I tried to make you understand last night, but you wouldn't listen. If he were roused,

"I can take care of myself," he might be dangerous. Don't take chances; don't think, because he is a churchman—"

She was talking against time. She had her plan now.

"I can take care of myself," said Huff sullenly. But he kept his place beside her as she started back. Her solicitude was for him, then. She cared, after all. But it wouldn't do to unbend too much. Elinor had treated him with a high hand. His very pulse ached with her nearness, but he did not touch her.

He left her without even a hand-clasp.

"You might wish me luck."

"I wish you safety," she replied. He stood down in the road, and watched her shadowy figure threading its way along the garden paths. He had a wild impulse to run after her, to kneel in the earth at her feet and cry out for her old tenderness, for her wistful-eyed caresses. Then, into his suspicious young heart crept the vision of Elinor's face when he had planned his new coup.

"I shall wait him," she had said. Huff's mouth was hard as he turned and walked down the hill.

CHAPTER X.

Into and through her garden Elinor walked quietly until she was safe from surveillance. Then she ran swiftly, ruthlessly across the flower beds, through the roses. The terrace was lighted. She avoided it, making a detour that led by a side entrance into old Hilary's library. For obvious reasons, old Hilary's private telephone was in a sound-proof closet.

Before Walter had taken a hundred watchful paces down the road she had Ward at the other end of the line. What with running and terror, she could hardly speak. Once, long ago, she had heard a discussion between Borden and her father about the use of the telephone. Its substance was that when the transmitter is held to the chest a clear message may be sent, but with the effect of distance. She held the transmitter to her breast then, and it seemed to her that Ward must hear the throbbing of her heart.

"Hello, hello!" came his quick response. No need to ask who it was. She knew every inflection of his voice.

"This is a friend," Elinor panted. "I want to tell you something."

"Yes?" Very incisive now.

"Tonight—very soon—an attempt—"

She stopped. What was she doing? She, her father's daughter, the head of the band! By warning Ward she might be sealing Walter to his death. A vision of old Hilary, gray-headed, keen-eyed, at this very telephone, flashed into her mind, old Hilary whose religion had been of keeping the faith, not with his God, but with his men.

"Who are you?" The impatient voice was saying in her ears. "Are you sure you want me? This is Ward, of Saint Jude's."

Elinor quietly hung up the telephone transmitter, and stood in the darkness, her hands to her throat.

Old Henriette, ever watchful, came into the library beyond. Elinor could hear her wandering about, knew the moment when she discovered her wrap on a chair, heard her plaintive voice speaking through a window to the empty terrace.

"Miss Elinor," she called. "Miss Elinor!"

Elinor let her go. When her shuffling footsteps had died away, Elinor took the receiver down again, and called the assistant rector's house. But this time she spoke directly into the transmitter.

"This is Elinor Kingston, Mr. Ward. I wonder if you are very tired to night?"

"I? Tired? I'm never tired."

"Because I am thinking of asking you to come up. I—there are some things I want to talk about, questions that are troubling me. I know it is late, but—"

"I saw you at the early service. Of course I'll come up."

He had seen her then! "Of course, you know I may disappoint you. These questions, that come from within, must be answered in the same way. But I'm coming at once."

Elinor's battle was only half fought, but she had a great sense of relief. Let him meet Walter on the way. So much the better. Let Huff know that Ward was out, and the offering presumably unguarded. He might hate the man, but no hope of a running fight with him would deter him from his main object, the money.

To save Ward, she was willing, even anxious, to let Walter succeed.

Women sometimes meet large crises with small vanities. But Elinor had no vanity. Without so much as a glance at the mirror she went out into the garden to listen for Ward's step on the road. She knew his walk already; the forceful, certain step of an energetic and purposeful man.

The illuminated dial on the steeple of the Baptist church showed something after ten when Ward finally came up the hill. The relief of seeing him unharmed sent Elinor down the terrace steps with both hands out. Before he could take them, Ward was obliged to stoop and deposit on the ground at her feet a small box that he carried.

"The morning collection," he said smiling, and took her hands in his.

Her quick alarm showed in her face. "But you are reckless! To go about with so much money—"

Ward was following her up the steps.

"I dare say it is safer with me than any place else in the world. Did anyone ever hear of an assistant rector going about with a fortune in his hand?"

He followed her into the library and placed the box on the great table where old Hilary had been wont to divide the annual earnings of the band. Ward pointed to it with his humorous smile.

"Would anyone suspect," he said, "that in that box there is a stone parish house, a new church organ, and a children's playground?"

Then, glancing at her with keen eyes, he was struck by her pallor.

"You to ask me if I am tired?" he cried. "Why, you poor child, it is you who are worn out. Wouldn't it be better to have me come tomorrow and go over the things you spoke about?"

"I think we had better talk about them now," said Elinor, desperately calm.

At a quarter before eleven that Sunday night, old Hilary, bent on her evening task of sending Elinor to bed, wandered into the library. She found Ward, his earnest face glowing, expounding the tenets of his faith from the edge of his chair; and Elinor lying back with her face drawn, watching the clock on the mantel.

Old Henriette, astounded, withdrew, not to sleep, but with the wakefulness of old age, to wander up and down the garden paths until such time as Elinor's visitor might leave.

Ward suddenly realized that he was making small headway. When at last he caught Elinor's eyes on the clock he flushed and rose.

"I've done it all very badly," he said. "I seem to wander all about and not get anywhere. You see it's all so real to me—"

Elinor had leaned back with closed eyes.

"It is all very terrible to me," she replied. "This God of vengeance—"

"This God of tenderness and mercy," Ward supplemented. "Don't you see what it all means? How terrible this life would be if this were all! Our little lives, full of jealousies and hatreds and crimes: I bring that box, over there on the table, up here with me tonight, because I dare not trust it to my fellow men; I who could not sleep last night for thinking of you, who are all that is good and sweet and tender, up here alone in this great house, with God knows what danger lurking about."

Elinor had reached her limit. The band of her self-control snapped. She could not hold him much longer, and before he went he must know.

"When I sent for you," she said, "I had two reasons. I wanted to see you. Please?" As he took a step toward her, "And I wanted to save you from something that I know of."

Something in her thinly drawn voice was familiar.

"I see," Ward said slowly. "It was you who telephoned me and then rang off."

"When you say that I am good and tender," Elinor went on, "you shame me. I am all that is bad and wicked. Everything. You were to have been robbed tonight. I brought you here under false pretenses."

Ward was as white as she. His figure straightened.

"Then all the time that I have been telling you—"

"I did not hear. I was watching the time."

Personal fear Ward had gone. He did not even follow Elinor's eyes as they glanced once more at the clock. Mrs. Bryant's venomous insinuations came back to him, all the village talk of the girl's strange rearing. Fearful thoughts flashed into his mind, to be dismissed, shaken off, doggedly.

"I shall never believe anything that you do not tell me yourself. But it is only fair to me that now at last there be frankness between us."

"There are others," Elinor said, with dry lips.

"Your father?"

"He is dead. I cannot talk of him. This much I can tell you. The parish house was burned deliberately; it was planned and carefully carried out."

"And you knew?"

"I had forbidden it."

"You had forbidden it?"

He went to her and caught her by the shoulders, forcing her to look up into his face.

"You? Then all this time that you have seen what you must have seen in my eyes, you have been—"

"At the head of a band of thieves," Elinor said slowly.

Ward released her, and turning took a slow survey of the room.

"Then I suppose this is a trap?" he said.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Calling In The "Specialist"

"In A Multitude Of Counselors There Is Safety"

WHEN SOMETHING BREAKS OR WEARS OUT it is usually a perfectly straightforward proposition to obtain a new one and have it put in, but when the engine develops an elusive "kink," when it suddenly or gradually loses power in an obscure way, when the radiator develops an inexplicable tendency to boil, or when the battery, for no apparent cause, refuses to keep charged, the situation is different. Obviously there is a cause (or causes) for each such baffling trouble, but to determine what it is, may often be beyond the diagnostic powers of the motorist concerned and expert advice is sought. No one can estimate the huge sums of money, which car owners have squandered for labor and material, consumed in following out treatments based upon false diagnoses, and the suggestions here given are intended to protect motorists from losses of this kind: When trouble due to an obscure cause develops, consult the best qualified expert available, obtain his opinion and pay him his fee, but do not act upon his advice at once, but, on the contrary, obtain the opinion of another qualified man. If these two "doctors disagree," try a third expert and keep on with this informal "consultation," until you have obtained the same diagnosis and recommended treatment from more than one. It is good economy to pay for all this advice rather than to obtain the opinion of one man free and allow him to do the work suggested as necessary (but perhaps not required at all), at his own shop. Give the experts your consent plenty of time to look your car over and to think over the "symptoms." Avoid the expert who has any patacca to sell, for he may be unconsciously biased. If he is a carburetor agent, he will most likely prescribe a "new one" when the trouble is really in the breaker-box. Should he happen to be a piston ring merchant, he may, in perfect good faith, recommend a full set of this "jewelry" when, in reality, new exhaust valve springs are needed. If the recommended treatment is of an expensive kind, don't begin upon it until two or three experts agree that it is what is required. The advice of a fellow motorist, or a neighbor's chauffeur, who has driven cars before the average garage "expert" reached the voling age, may often be worth as much as that of a professional. Certainly it is worth something.

CAR "LAYS DOWN" ON UP GRAD

A. writes: I have a 1918 car which "falls down" on speed, when going up the least incline. The engine is likely to stall, and when the car is stopped or slowed down, it has had valves ground and timed. What is the nature of this trouble?

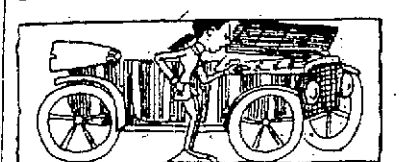

Answer: Assuming that your ignition is all right this looks like a case of too lean mixture, which is a condition that results in low power and uncertain engine operation at low speed. You better have the carburetor re-adjusted to feed a little more gasoline in proportion to air. If this does not improve conditions, please write us again. We suggest that you have no more work done upon the car until you have tried the above suggestion, for such persons as grinding valves on a new car like this, under conditions such as you describe, are useful only to the ones who do the grinding.

ENGINE MISSES FROM CARBONIZED PLUGS

D. W. P. asks: Why do the two front spark-plugs of my Ford constantly fill up with carbon so that the engine misses to such an extent that I can get but 10 or 12 miles per gallon? I have had new Ford rings put in. Would it be of any use to try rings of another make? Ignition seems good, but would some other than the standard Ford type give better results?

Answer: If the plugs carbonize from oil, the carbon rings are still at fault. Properly fitting Ford rings ought to make the pistons tight, but possibly patent rings might prove better. If the carbon upon the plugs is gasoline soot, it denotes that these two cylinders receive too rich a mixture, which is most likely because the intake manifold runs too cold to vaporize the fuel properly. A heated manifold and a closer adjustment of the carburetor might correct this. A high-tension magneto or a modern battery system would improve your ignition results. If gas rapidly leaks out of these cylinders, when they are cranked through their compression strokes, it is evident that the rings still fit so imperfectly that an escape of oil past them is to be expected.

Questions of general interest to motorists will be answered in this column, space permitting. Address Albert L. Clough, care of this office.

LEGISLATURE GOES ON HOLIDAY AFTER BUSY SESSIONS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, May 17.—Both houses of the legislature have taken an adjournment until Tuesday and most of the important measures on Friday's calendar far next Wednesday. The Nolan and Knappe bill providing for a state board of conciliation was placed on Wednesday's calendar at the request of Assemblyman T. S. Nolan.

In a late session Thursday night the assembly by a vote of 31 to 20 refused to reconsider the vote by which it killed the Perry bill providing for the licensing of painters and decorators.

There was a sharp fight over the Kutenacher bill giving public utilities the right to put in rates without first submitting them to the railroad commission for approval. Those raised, however, were to be subject to commissioner review on protest of any of the utility users. Knappe offered an amendment to give the utilities the right to regulate the new rates put in by utilities, but his amendment was defeated 14 to 24. Metcalf charged that the Kutenacher bill would split the work of the Wisconsin railroad commission, and for nonconcurrence the Severson bill providing for wider publicity of state income returns.

The Skogmo bill permitting the use of the Christian Science treatment to defeat the compensation act was introduced without opposition. The Wilcox bill to appropriate money to Homer P. Herbert, Chippewa Falls, whose flock of sheep was killed by hours while he was in the army service was nonconcurred in.

Assemblyman Metcalf attempted to defeat the $300,000 to the Wisconsin national guard but failed. This bill passed provides for a $300,000 annual appropriation of which $200,000 must be spent under the supervision of the governor. Bills providing for an increase in salary of the superintendent of public property and the dairy and food commissioner from $3,000 to $4,000 a year was passed. The house concurred in the bill increasing the trunk highway system from 5,000 to 7,500 miles, and passed the Masukowski bill providing for county agents to build up the state life insurance fund. The Perry bill increasing the salary of state employees twenty per cent was passed and now goes to the senate.

Welcome Home!

IT is with deep appreciation of your services to our country that we say "Welcome Home." Your splendid courage and work so well done have made this a glorious epoch in the history of America and of the world.

THIS institution has been privileged during its history to help welcome home veterans from three wars, the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the Great World War, in each of which Janesville's sons played a valorous part. It remained for you to add lustre to the history of our city and nobly did you finish the task with which you were entrusted.

Janesville, The State and All The Nation thrills at the names of the battles you went through. You won the fight as we knew you would. Your heroism, your valor rings throughout the world.

Mere words cannot express our distinct admiration for you. What you did is forever engraved deep in the hearts of us all. We welcome you, each and every man—heroes all.

On Janesville's Service Flag some of the stars have turned to Gold.

We hold sacred the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice and our welcome is touched deeply with sadness because those for whom the Gold Star gleams in its field of white, will never return to our midst. They "went West" to make the world safe for democracy and we can never forget them.

BLACKHAWKS SET FOR FOOTVILLE

By George McManus.

SOX COMING WITH LARGE DELEGATION OF ROOTERS

BRINGING UP FATHER

BY RED BIFF

The Blackhaws and the Footville White Sox will mix things in nine innings of baseball at the fair at three o'clock. Tom Sullivan will umpire the battle. Word from Footville today was to the effect that a large number of rooters would accompany the team.

The Hawks today were fairly confident of tearing home with a victory. They are not underestimating the strength of their opponents but feel that with the addition of Cuddy Butters to their lineup things look bright.

It is going to take some tall stepping on the part of the boys from the third ward woods to connect but if things go true to prediction the male hosed boys from the village of feet will trail home tomorrow night, defeated.

Rivalry is intense

The game has been twice postponed so more than the usual amount of interest is attached to it. The rivalry between the two teams for many years has been intense and some sizzling frays have been staged in the past.

Either Lentz or Smith will twin for the visitors with Young Silverthorn doing the heavy work behind the rubber. None of this trio of players needs any introduction to Janesville fans. Their prowess is recognized.

Pete Fleming will start the game on the mound for the Hawks with Cuddy Butters holding down the third sack, ready to relieve Fleming in the box if necessary. Timmie McGue will do mascot duty back of the plate.

Skimmer Doran will hold down the initial bag with either Babe Sullivan or Harry Crouke performing at the keystone sack. All of these men are fast infielders and can be relied on to pole out a few long hits when they are most needed.

Stelly Hill will be in a Hawk uniform performing at the shortstop position. He will probably be used as clean-up man by Manager Doran. The Hawks press a well-balanced outfield with the Berger, Smith, Hill, Fleming, Marshall, and Cuts ready to cavort.

All in all, it is an aggregation of real ball players that will face the Sox tomorrow. That will be a regular game goes without saying.

COLTS ARE HANDED AN AWFUL TRIMMING

Clanson's Colts were unmercifully slaughtered at the East Side Alley's Thursday evening by a flock of pin artists playing under the name of Baumann's Pick. When the fearful carnage was ended and the scorekeeper had added up the death toll it was found that the hitherto champion Colts were behind by a margin of 338 bottles.

The Colts gathered four dunces while Baumann's wood smashers counted 2,559 times. Newman was mainly responsible for the victory, hitting three high games, 190, 220, and 170.

It was the first defeat for the Colts in 10 straight games. The other four Colts discouraged at Hjorth's miserable showing in the first game were easy victims. "Whitney" was suffering from sudden illness.

JUNIOR STARS FIGHT HARMONY TOMORROW

The Junior All-Stars will invade Harmony territory tomorrow afternoon to clash with the Harmony Junior team on its own diamond. They will endeavor to show the national game is played in Janesville. Activities will begin at 1:30.

The young Stars are feeling all after their 27 to 16 victory over a scrub high school team Wednesday night and will journey northward with the hope of annexing their ninth straight victory. They are confident of coming home with the bacon and are willing to face the best slug artist Harmony can produce so strong do they feel after knocking Raubacher and Hager all over the lot Wednesday night.

The line-up for the Stars will be: Dickerson, c.; Cullen, p.; Graesslin, 1b.; Arbecker, 2b.; Gokey, 3b.; Leary, 1b.; Slightam, cf.; Litney, 1b.; Leary and Dawson, utility.

Pallette and Holsclaw Win in 50-Yard Run

Two heats were run off in the 500 yard run in the employed boys' mass last night. Pallette and Holsclaw won in a close race and Sullivan winning over Doss and Mills in the other heat. Doss finished second and Mills third. This qualifies Sullivan for the final where the employed boys meet the high school class in a dual meet and Pallette, Bull and Balfe are scheduled to meet for the other place in the final meet. Bull is the favorite, but Pallette and Balfe are strong runners at this distance.

ALL-STARS BATTLE EDGERTON OUTLAWS HERE TOMORROW

The All-Stars, Janesville's fastest junior baseball team, will cross bats with the Edgerton Outlaws at Bailey's diamond tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The Tobacco City nine practically represents the high school and is considered about the fastest junior team in Edgerton this year.

Manager Bick is confident the boys from the northern city will not have a look-in tomorrow. Graesslin, who is handling the pitchers will have either Ted Hager or Bevo Bick on mound to stop the sluggers from Edgerton. Wall or Crowley will do the receiving work.

The pitching chances favor Bick, as Hager will be allowed to rest for the Senior-Junior game next week. If a good crowd turns out to see the game tomorrow then it may be possible to bring the Milwaukee Athletic club nine here tomorrow in the next future. This will be at a great expense and unless the Stars are supported it will not be possible to arrange the game.

Manager Bick is now booking games with the Beloit high school informals, the Beloit Colored Giants, Milton, Milton Junction, Brooklyn, Albany, Harmony, Stoughton, Footville, Argyle, and the Rockford Colored Giants. Edgerton has sent notice to Bick that the line-up has been changed by the addition of a couple of dark horses so the line-up cannot be announced today.

The line-up for the Stars will be: Wall-Crowley, c.; Hager-Bick, p.; Fullman, ss.; Zahn, 1b.; McGinley, 2b.; Babeock, 3b.; Zahn, 1b.; Graesslin, cf.; Hager-Bick, cf.

HAGER'S REDS WIN FROM HIGHS, 26 TO 9

Hager's Reds won the indoor baseball championship at the Y. M. C. A. last night, walloping Bick's high school team by a 26 to 9 score. Last night's victory gives Hager's team the national title for the indoor baseball championship in the league which has been running for the past 10 weeks.

Hager pitching for the Red's held the Highs to three scores in the first three innings. Six runs were gathered in the next two frames. Gridley pitching for the Highs in the first inning was removed from the box after 17 runs had been scored. Bick finished the game and allowed nine runs.

FELSCH'S CLOUT WINS FOR SOX

Chicago—Chicago beat Boston 7 to 4 on Friday by hitting Caldwell frequently and hard. A bunch of four hits followed a base on balls in the second inning and scored four runs. Two triples by Felsch were the chief factors in Chicago's other tallies.

SPRINTERS RUN HEARTS OUT IN CHAMPIONSHIP RACES

Finish of 100-yard dash at recent Penn relay meet.

This extraordinary photograph was snapped at the finish of the 100-yard dash in the annual Penn relay at Philadelphia. The runners have just crossed the line. The tape broken by the winner can be seen still in the air in the center of the picture. The winner was the man at the left, Sol Butler of Dubuque. W. Haddock of Kansas, next to him, finished second. G. Hass of Grinnell was third, and J. F. Dwyer fourth. The drawn, almost agonized expression on the faces of the runners shows how they have called on every ounce of strength they possess to carry them to the finish.

HITS

IOWA, 9; CORNELL, 0.
Iowa City, Ia., May 17.—Hamilton's brilliant pitching for Iowa beat Cornell, 9 to 0, yesterday.

CHANEY STOPS BATTING LAHN.
Baltimore, Md., May 17.—Battling Lahn of Brooklyn did not last long with Young Chaney in their fight here last night. In the fourth round the referee decided, out of kindness for Lahn, to stop the bout and give the decision to Chaney.

AMES MAKES MAYSER DIRECTOR.
Ames, Ia., May 17.—Charles W. Maysor, for four years football, basketball, and wrestling coach at Iowa State college, has been appointed director of physical training and athletics, to succeed Clyde Williams. Williams recently resigned to engage in business. Maysor is a former Yale athlete.

McALLISTER, 12; CAMPION, 9.
Prairie du Chien, Wis., May 17.—Campion was defeated by McAllister 12 to 9. Poor fielding, particularly by Catcher Alcese, lost the game.

Asks Name Be Changed.
New York.—President Wilson has directed the food administration grain corporation to change its name to the United States Grain corporation and increase its capital stock from $150,000,000 to $500,000,000.

With school spirit a fever height the champion class baseball game between the junior and senior class baseball teams will probably take place Tuesday afternoon at the fair grounds. School will be dismissed early so that the entire school may witness the game. It was planned to hold the game Monday afternoon, but due to the arrival of Co. M, the date will probably be set to Tuesday.

The Villain Still Pursued Her

He was "that city feller," and he came snooping around the girl you thought you owned. He began spending dimes like nickels. Curses! You realized that a fellow must spend money on a girl. Well, handsome stranger, we shall see, we shall see.

Then came "The Old Homestead," and you invited her to sit with you in the two best seats in the house. Goodness! How that piece oozed villainy and virtue! How wicked the great metropolis, how peaceful and rugged and good-clear-through the country-side beneath the friendly star!

The city dude didn't have a look-in after that night; he faded entirely from your knowledge until you met him just the other day. He had grown up to be a preacher, with a large family. He inquired about Stella, and you had to tell him that "The Old Homestead" had done its work only too well. Stella had passed you up also and married a sure-enough farmer.

All the same, they were great old days, and you can recover a bit of their charm by lighting up a Senero, the cigar of pleasant memories.
